In view of the huge need to promote rural management and rural engagement education across the country and to maintain high standards, an e-Resource Centre with recording facility was put in place at MGNCRE to record expert discussions and transmit them electronically to all Higher Educational Institutions across the country. This is expected to promote interaction with all State and Central Universities, IIMs, IITs/NITs/HEIs. This is also expected to cut the costs of transferring knowledge on rural concerns. The various Faculty Development Programs conducted in this e-learning centre will involve the best faculty in rural management and rural engagement. The electronic version would be available across the country. The National Conference of Waste Management Specialists held from 22nd – 28th April was the first attempt to formalize our recording studio. This milestone achievement marks the beginning of a new era of electronic teaching in rural education.

During the year, the Council entered into partnership Memorandum of Understanding (MoU) with various Central / State Universities for promoting Rural Education and Curriculum Development.

MGNCRE has embarked on orientation cum training workshops under PMMMNMTT and HRDC programmes with Universities/ Institutions, as part of its objective to enable faculty to learn and understand Experiential Learning, Gandhiji's Nai Talim and Community Engagement and thereby participate in regional and national development. The benefits of learning about community engagement are manifold as subsequently students learn participatory practices, learn life skills and benefit from internships. Gandhiji's Nai Talim and Rural Community Engagement are based on open ended field inquiry and are action oriented. Most importantly, the Experiential Learning Curriculum, Rural Engagement Curriculum and trajectory developed by us, Rural concerns have taken a back seat in the academic area. Development of Higher Education curriculum addressing the needs of backward rural areas and their representative higher educational institutions, boosting the flagship social and rural development programmes with focus on education, skill development, employment and livelihoods comprise the core initiatives of MGNCRE. The Council seeks to strengthen the rural higher education curriculum and the faculty members transacting it. The higher educational streams of focus for MGNCRE include: Rural Studies, Rural Development, Rural Management, Social Work and Education. Capacity building and professionalization of Rural Institutes, skill development, entrepreneurship, livelihoods, community initiatives, creativity of local groups and proactive development action constitute the core content of the Council's research and interventions.

MGNCRE, under Unnat Bharat Abhiyan (UBA), has started collaborations with Institutions for facilitating technical orientation programmes for Rural Community Engagement. We have a Rural Immersion Manual in place to facilitate the faculty.

Gandhiji's 150 birth anniversary has come as a boon for MGNCRE and this occasion is being utilized extensively by conducting experiential learning programs right from Nagaland to Kashmir valley to Kerala. Training, retraining and mentoring young people, undoubtedly uphill tasks, are being done by MGNCRE personnel have the approval of UGC and AICTE.

April 11 marked Kasturba Gandhi's 150th birth anniversary. Gandhiji learnt his basic tenets of Truth and Non Violence along with Satyagraha from Kasturba Gandhi. MGNCRE on its part initiated a programme to commemorate this day as Nai Talim Initiation Day and several Educational Institutions actively participated in the programme.

I proudly put forth our achievements for the financial year 2018-19.
